4. The 3rd Pacific Rim Statistics Conference for Production Engineering
The Pacific Rim area is one of the key manufacturing sites in the world and application of statistical thinking and methods for production engineering has never been more important than with Big Data. Following the success of the first two conferences held at Shanghai Center for Mathematical Sciences in 2014 and Seoul National University in 2016, the 3rd Pacific Rim Statistical Conference for Production Engineering (SCPE 2018) will be held at National Tsing Hua University in Hsinchu, Taiwan. The SCPE 2018 highlights the most recent developments and application of statistical thinking and methods for production engineering, in particular smart factory and AI. It features renowned speakers in statistics and engineering from academe and industry, showcasing their work in smart factory and production engineering. The 3-day conference will be composed of two plenary lectures, six scientific sessions, two panel discussions and two half-day short courses. 5. BASS (Biopharmaceutical Applied Statistics Symposium) XXV
BASS provides 2.5 days of 1-hour tutorials (including Q&A) on topics in applied biopharmaceutical statistics, with a contributed poster session, followed by short courses, generally 2 course of 2 days length on topics in applied statistics. This format allows speakers to develop a subject in some depth. The moderate size of the symposium (50-70 attendees) and informal structure allows for the attendees to interact effectively with the speakers. BASS attendees are provided a flash drive with all of the presentations.

For more information, please visit www.bassconference.org.

6. Online Training Program
Online training serves as a viable alternative to traditional continuing education options, e.g., to short courses offered at biostatistical conferences. Over the past year, the ASA Biopharmaceutical Section has been working on creating an online training program aimed at clinical trial statisticians and set up a pilot program which includes half-day and full-day courses on key topics in biopharmaceutical statistics:

- Analysis of Longitudinal and Incomplete Data
- Multiplicity Issues in Clinical Trials
- Analysis of Surrogate Endpoints in Clinical Trials

The section has received much positive feedback from industry and academic statisticians. Clinical trial statisticians who took advantage of the online training program emphasized that this program is convenient, inexpensive and quite flexible.

A similar online training program has been set up for ICSA members. As a member of the ICSA, you will receive a 50% discount when you sign up for any course included in the program. The online training courses are based on professionally recorded videos using a format similar to that used in YouTube videos. The videos can be accessed 24/7 on a computer or even on a smart phone. The cost of online training is quite low compared to traditional training, and it can be further reduced by using a group-training format. Up to 25 people... can view an online training course with a single registration, which lowers the cost of online training to about $20-25 per person for full-day courses and $10-15 per person for half-day courses.
For more information about the online training program and to sign up for the individual online courses, please visit this web page:
